KILLS HIS FAMILY OF FIVE AND IS FOUND ALIVE DAYS AFTER SHOOTING HIMSELF

With Bullet in Head, Found Unconscious on Floor, Dies Few Hours Later.

Neighbors notified the police to-day that they had not seen Henry Lake or his wife or his two sons or his two daughters since last Thursday and that a most disagreeable odor was rising from their three-room flat on the first floor of No. 25 Wyckoff street, Brooklyn. Policemen Gardner and Brennan of the Butler street station broke in the door. They found Lake unconscious, but life still in him, on the parlor floor. He was shot through the head. Beside him lay an empty magazine revolver and a weapon of the ordinary type, from which two bullets had been fired. He died a few hours later.

On a bed in the room lay eleven-year-old Walter, Lake's youngest child. He was shot through the head and was dead. In the combination kitchen and dining room in the rear of the parlor lay seventeen-year-old Horace and fifteen-year-old Stella, both dead. Each was shot through the head. Horace's body lay on the bed. Stella's was huddled in a corner. Mrs. Lake and Dorothy, her fourteen-year-old daughter, lay dead, side by side, on a bed in the small hall bedroom. Like the others, they had been shot through the head.

The police found this letter on a trunk in the back room:

To the Coroner—I am tired of living. My wife is slowly dying and our four children are small, delicate and sure to get trampled on in the struggle of life. It is best for them to return to unconscious dust with their parents (see Schopenhauer "Essays on the Sufferings of the World, etc."). Inclosed find $22. Please telegraph my sister, Mrs. Blanche DeMar, 123 Broadway, Narrauc Lake, N. Y., $20 to come to Brooklyn. I wish to have the bodies cremated. Insurance papers, some money and jewelry addressed to Mrs. DeMar. Henry W. Lake, forty-nine; Mary, forty-three; Horace, seventeen; Stella, fourteen; Dorothy, twelve; Walter, ten. "Death is nature's most admirable invention." The police believe that the shooting took place on Thursday night. All the bodies were badly decomposed. That Lake could have lived in such a shambles, even had he been uninjured himself, seemed a miracle. How he survived with a bullet through his head Dr. Guiderman of the Long Island College Hospital, confessed he didn't know. Lake was employed as cook at Bristol.

Exchange Wants Extra Holiday. Members of the Stock Exchange are to-day circulating a petition on the Exchange floor favoring the closing of the Exchange on Saturday, Aug. 20, all day. This would give the brokers three days holiday over Labor Day, on Monday, Sept. 1. The petition will be referred to the Governing Committee for final action.

HEALY'S DINERS MAY HAVE DRINKS, TOO, AFTER 1 A.M.

So Declares Magistrate Deuel in Holding the Raiding Cops for Trial.

Magistrate Deuel, who issued warrants for Police Inspector John F. Dwyer and for the policemen who took part in the early morning raids on Healy's restaurant last week, characterizing the action of the police as scandalous and high-handed, went a step further to-day and delivered the opinion from the bench in the West Side Court that not only could restaurants remain open after 1 o'clock in the morning while their patrons consumed food, but that liquor could be drunk after that hour, providing that it had been purchased before that hour.

Referring to the subdivision of the Liquor Tax law, under which the police acted in their contention that all restaurants where liquor was sold must close at 1 A. M., the Magistrate said:

The plain and unmistakable intent of the subdivision in question is that all contracts made before 1 o'clock may be carried out and completed, provided the proprietor fulfills his part before that hour; that at 1 o'clock the doors shall be closed and locked and that thereafter none shall be admitted. But those inside at 1 o'clock shall have at least reasonable opportunity to consume what previously has been purchased.

"That has been the ruling of the courts of this city, so far as my experience extends, since the Liquor Tax law was enacted, and I have been in one or the other of the courts having jurisdiction during that time."

POLICE USURPED POWERS NOT THEIRS TO USE.

Magistrate Deuel's interpretation of the law was included in a memorandum which he handed down concerning the cases of Inspector Dwyer and Policemen Sheridan, whom he held last Saturday in $1,000 bail each on charges of felonious assault preferred by George F. Flannery, a newspaper man.

Assistant Corporation Counsel George H. Curtis Jr. raised the contention that the Magistrate had prejudged the case and should have transferred them to another court. In outlining the case the Magistrate went over its whole history, declaring that the police "by force of brutal power became at once complainant, judge, jury and executioner" in their interpretation of the law.

Magistrate Deuel closed with the admission, which Mr. Curtis said was startling to him, that District Attorney Whitman had visited Healy's and been present at the raid after a conference with Magistrate Deuel and "with my full concurrence." On the strength of this statement Mr. Curtis said he should subpoena the Magistrate as a witness when the trial of the police occurred downtown.

Magistrate Deuel to-day held Inspector Dwyer in $50 more bail on a charge of simple assault brought by Albert Grau, a theatrical man, of No. 53 West One Hundred and Fifty-fifth street.

The Magistrate disposed of the disputed point of how identifications might be made as soon as the cases of the policemen were called. Assistant Corporation Counsel George M. Curtis Jr. on Saturday had contended that it was not enough that the complainants should recall the numbers of policemen. They must identify them, face to face, also, he said.

In making a ruling to the contrary Magistrate Deuel said: "I don't want to hear any argument by the Corporation Counsel. If he wishes he may object and have his objection made part of the record, but the cases must go on on my ruling."

Mr. Curtis waived examination for every man called and took advantage of his right not to produce the defendant. Assistant District Attorney J. Robert Rubin, in the absence of District Attorney.

THAW'S KEEPER TELLS THE STORY OF HIS ESCAPE

Barnum Says He Stood at Gate and Shouted: "Here, Here, Come Back!"

(Special to The Evening World.)

FOUGHKEEPSIE, Aug. 18.—Howard Hoyt Barnum, the veteran guard of Matteawan, from whose side Thaw escaped, was formally charged with bribery and neglect of duty by the District Attorney of Dutchess County. Barnum was arraigned before Justice Morchauer and the charges were read to him. He made no reply. His attorney, Ferdinand A. Hoyt, a relative, asked for an adjournment until Thursday, which Justice Morchauer granted.

"I had the keys to the gate, and was in charge of the yard. I first saw Thaw as I sat on the bench near the engine room. He asked me if I saw the article in the Fishkill Herald about him giving $5,000 to Gen. Sickles. He said he had made a mistake as he wished to have the article put in the Matteawan Journal."

"Then the gate bell rang. I walked slowly down to the rear gate and Thaw walked at my side. William Hickey, the milkman, had a crate on the wagon with bottled milk and he drove in. Then I saw an automobile coming up. It was something like a talcab. It turned as if the driver wanted to see me or was coming in the yard."

STAYED RIGHT THERE UNTIL HIS RELIEF CAME.

"Just as it came up about two hundred feet away Thaw slipped out of the gate behind the milk wagon and ran like a deer toward the machine."

"Two men opened the door and grabbed Thaw. At the moment Thaw reached the car the engine was running very fast. Thaw was in the back. The car shot off toward Glenham. I shouted to him 'Here, here, come back here!' but he was out of sight in a moment."

"There is a tent near the gate, used for convalescent patients. A new attendant was in charge. I do not know his name. He is relieving the regular man, who is on his vacation. I shouted to him 'Thaw is gone!' I then ran to the engine room and telephoned to the front office. The new man did not move a foot. I got O'Hagan, Leonard and told him. I stayed there until they sent a man to take the keys, which relieved me. It was half an hour before I was relieved of duty."

"I never imagined Thaw wanted to escape. He had chances every day. I did not believe you could drive him out. He was absolutely trusted. He came and went when he pleased. It was quite the custom for him to come into the yard after breakfast, smoke a cigar and talk."

"I am married. Mrs. Barnum is now in a Maternity Hospital at No. 32 East Sixth street, New York City. She came the mother of a boy one week ago."

EVELYN THAW DANCES NERVOUSLY AND TAKES FIVE CURTAIN CALLS.

There was not a seat to be had in Hammerstein's Victoria Theatre for this afternoon's matinee performance, when Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw was scheduled to appear at the opening of the third week of her engagement.

Mrs. Thaw appeared to be very nervous and danced only three of the four dances in her repertoire with Jack Clifford, her dancing partner.

At the end of a fifth curtain call she stepped to the footlights and after an embarrassed pause faltered:

"Thank you very much."

Mrs. Thaw Engages Alienist for Fight After Son Writes He Will Join Her in Cresson, Pa.

(By Associated Press.)

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 18.—A report was circulated here to-day that Harry K. Thaw, accompanied by several men, arrived in this city by automobile this morning and boarded a train which left at 11 A. M. for New Brunswick, Canada.

A New York man thought he recognized Thaw, but was not positive.

Photographs of Richard J. Butler, former Assemblyman from this city, were identified to-day by the proprietor of the Holland House at Beacon, N. Y., his son, the clerk and others as the picture of the Richard J. Butler, who was concerned in the escape of Harry K. Thaw. The identifiers said there could be no doubt about Butler's handwriting on the hotel register has also been found to correspond with his writing as known to people who have had letters from him.

A policeman at the West Forty-second street ferry also identified a picture of Butler this afternoon as that of the "Hooks" Butler in the case.

It is said that the same crowd that took Thaw from Matteawan Sunday had arranged to rescue him the last time he was in New York, at the trial of Lawyer John N. Anhut. But somebody's nerve failed and the rescue which was to have occurred at the Hotel Astor was abandoned.

INSIDER NAMES FIVE IN PLOT.

H. Finken, owner of the Cragston Express, at No. 651 West Forty-third street, told an Evening World reporter this afternoon that he was familiar with the beginning of the plot that resulted in the escape of Harry K. Thaw from Matteawan Asylum early yesterday. Here is Finken's story as it relates to the Thaw matter and not including considerable information on the side which does not directly apply to the case.

"I have been handling the baggage of the Thaw family for fifteen years," said the expressman, "and I know Mrs. Thaw and other members of the family. Last Friday a man whom I know very well, but whose name I wouldn't give up on my life, appeared down here at the West Shore ferry at the foot of West Forty-second street in a big touring car."

"I'm not going to say how I know this, but I do know that this man said he wanted five good auto men to go up to Matteawan on a hunting trip. I'm not saying how he did it, but he met Richard J. Butler, known around here as 'Hooks' Butler because he was once a longshoreman; Eugene Duffy, Michael O'Keefe, Tom Flood and Roger Thompson, all chauffeurs. He talked with those fellows and they went away with him and haven't been back here since."

"Now, I'm not going to say how it came out, but Butler and Thompson and Flood and the other boys had no sooner gone away when it became known around here that they were going to get Harry Thaw out. The fact of the matter is that I don't know any more than all the auto boys around here know, and they knew it was coming off before it happened."

What may be corroboration of Finken's story is the fact that all the men mentioned by him are missing and have been missing since last Friday.

THAW, AT LARGE, IS BEYOND CRIMINAL LAW.

It was pointed out by lawyers to-day that Harry Kendall Thaw, at large, is a person roaming the country carrying with him what is in effect a license to murder, without fear of any punishment beyond being sent back to Matteawan. In the eyes of the law of this State, Thaw is an insane person and cannot be held accountable for his deeds.

He was committed as an insane person to Matteawan Asylum and has never been relieved of the charge. For any offense he may commit while at liberty he can set up the defense that he is insane, and it would be up to a State that has locally pronounced him insane to prove that he isn't. The realization of this fact is not conducive to the peace of mind of Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, William Travers Jerome, former District Attorney;
